The engine's oil would also be allowed to escape around the piston rings, causing a lot of smoke, fouled spark plugs, and potentially burned pistons. The breather pipe works well for the family car, but racing engines require added venting and often incorporate an air pump to pull the air out of the crankcase.

What is the function of a breather pipe in engines? - Quora

A breather hose is very important because it allows you to release pressure built up inside your engine and it keeps you in line with strict environmental laws. The thing is that pressure in the engine has to go somewhere-else the whole thing just goes boom-but it comes with a lot of exhaust fumes, the breather hose helps hit two birds with one stone.
